Today's Sports Betting Preview - By Rick Elliott

Are England A Good Thing To Win World Cup Group G?

The last domestic fixture in the UK has now been played so the focus is now on the World Cup. England have friendly fixtures at home against Nigeria and Costa Rica and then the real action begins against Tunisia on June 18th. Tunisia and England's opponents in their second group match, Panama, are the 30th and 31st biggest priced teams in outright World Cup betting.

On rankings and form Saudi Arabia are only inferior to England's first two opponents. The final fixture against Belgium in theory should decide the group and England's match in the round of the last 16. Experience has taught us not to expect the outcome to be so straightforward but ENGLAND are 5/4 with Ladbrokes to win Group G so at those odds are you a backer or layer?

In the past British men's tennis was an embarrassment like the England national football team can be at times. Andy Murray changed all that but he didn't come through the system. He moved to Spain as a youngster and he is self made rather than being a result of investment in the sport in the UK.

In Murray's absence Kyle Edmund is Britain's best hope in the French Open. He reached the semi-finals of the Australian Open earlier this year but is yet to win an ATP World Tour title. EDMUND is 10/11 with William Hill to beat Alex De Minaur in straight sets in the first round of second Grand Slam tournament of the season.

It's the Epsom Oaks on Friday and the Derby on the same track the following day. The Derby is the most important and prestigious Flat race in the world so it's not a surprise that the racing is relatively ordinary at the start of the week. The two meetings in Ireland both offer over £100,000 in prize money while the five Flat cards in the UK are worth no more than £65,000 to connections. The richest race of the day is at Gowran Park at 6.45. TURRET ROCKS is racing at a lower grade than in the past and can win this race at 9/4 with Coral.

Carroll, King And Bailey Ready To Strike - By High Roller Racing

Three trainers who are showing signs of producing winners galore over the next couple of weeks are attracting my attention. Tony Carroll, Alan King and Caroline Bailey are all very capable trainers in their own rights at producing winners so I think it folly to ignore them.

Tony Carroll as horses on the level and over jumps. His team seem in form and building up to a good spell which we need to take notice of. Recent victories for Oeil De Tigre and River Dart plus some good placed efforts encourage me to think this team are to be carefully watched. River Rule has an entry at Brighton after being placed there recently. Falcon Cliffs are Wedgewood Wonder plus Wiley Post attracted my eye when going through Tony Carroll's entries for the coming week. Could I suggest that you look at how many entries a trainer has for a horse and watch where he places that horse hopefully in will give clues to the horses potential to win. Ignore Tony Carroll and it could prove expensive. I back every horse to small stakes when Tony runs them in a seller or a class7 race.

Alan King is running more on the flat than ever before but we know him mainly as a jumps trainer. Alan has career bests recently for two horses on the flat and they are Berlinger and Outofthequestion the first named, Beringer, looks one to follow as his stamina gets drawn out. A lot of Alan's entries over the next week are over jumps but he does have two entries which it could be prudent to follow them Giveaway Glance and Parmenter who look ready to win. Watch Alan's entries and runner for both codes as he is in good form.

Caroline Bailey had her last winner at the end of April when Malapie won at Towcester but that's not to say she is out of form as most of her horses have been running credibly. McCabe Creek ran a personal best and is one to look for. Caroline has a small yard but I think she will be in the winners enclosure a few times in the next week or so. Note that Warriors Prince and The Captain could be one's to step forward. Take note of the horses from this yard and it could pay dividends.

High Roller had a good start to the week and if you want to join us FREE and pay only £10 if you win then follow the link below. Good luck.

Tuesday's Horses In Focus - By Unity Racing Investments

Some really good bets to come some over the next few days. We continue in top form and land ANOTHER HUGE GAMBLE 16/1 into 7/1 sp as ALLBARNONE wins at Cartmel at what could be huge prices with horses kept under the radar.

A really exciting time, I think this is the month that we will see us make new all-time highs. 70% + Return On Investment this month and after a number of flat months we are due much more. Check our chart after any period of flat or losing months we make steady gains. This is the start month of hopefully a very profitable cycle so now is a great time to join.

Tuesday's Jockey In Focus

JOHN EGAN has a strong set of rides lined up today including 2 for Malcom Saunders who is in flying form. The hardest of his rides to see win would be Lutine Charlie the 11yo with Emma Owen. He has further wins in him, but he is also a very in out performer. The sort that could pop up any day at a huge price. It's hard to see it today but I will include in an each way lucky 15 just in case but my main bet will be the John Egan Trixie.

Today - 6:20 Sarangoo

Today - 7:50 Roy Rocket

Today - 8:50 Titus Secret

All run at Brighton and all have a pretty good chance you can make it each way if you prefer a bit of safety but I will be playing on the nose. I will only spend 1.2 points on the bet though.

Tuesday's Horses In Focus

Brighton 8-20 Handicap (Class 6) 8f - There is a big shout here for FINTECH this lightly raced 4yo has always been well thought of at home and although he hasn't shown much yet this late maturing type should improve consistently for the next few years. The horse should be around 80 rated by the end of the year if things go according to plan. 2 runs on turf came on slower ground than ideal and this quick Turf should suit the horse. Connections are on early. 10/1 is fair enough.

Redcar 3-00 Handicap (Class 5) 8f - Shamaheart is coming down to a backable mark now and may have an each way chance in this class 5 race the horse is currently over priced at 16/1 in fact anything above 10/1 can be considered value. Connections are having an each way punt but that's not really my style I need 25/1 plus odds to consider each way plays, so I'm going on the nose!

We have another exciting bet today around 12/1 on the account but I don't want the price to collapse for our investors so that is only available for subscribers.
