Team In Focus: Wolves - By Rick Elliott

Introduction

We are producing a weekly feature of a Team in Focus and are working through the 20 teams in the Premier League. The leading teams in some of the main leagues in the rest of Europe will also be covered. During the summer we will look at the key statistics for the four teams playing in the finals of the UEFA Nations League.

This week the Team In Focus is WOLVES. They came up from the Championship last season and have the players to now become established in the Premier League. Wolves are at home to Manchester United in the quarter-finals of the FA Cup and look just about the best of the rest above the top six elite.

Statistics

All the statistics and records shown below are correct as at February 22nd 2019.

Last Goal	10 71.43%	7 58.33%	17 65.38%

Statistics Of Note

Here are the five most significant Premier League trends that can be used when betting on Wolves United during the rest of the Premier League season:

- No goalless matches home or away.
- Over 2.5 goals in 10 matches.
- Both teams scored in 5 home matches.
- Last goal in 17 matches.
- Over 40 bookings points per match.

Prospects For The Rest Of The Season

Wolves are looking comfortable in the Premier League and are in pole position to finish 7th. There is a gap of 11 points to the place above so Wolves cannot break into the top six at least this season. They have had some reverses against teams from the bottom half of the table but have done well in some matches against the top six. Beating Manchester United in the FA Cup looks beyond them but Wolves can win enough games before the end of the season to confirm 7th place. That process can begin with their next fixture away to Huddersfield.

Tip For The Season

Wolves to beat Huddersfield at 10/11 with Ladbrokes.

Today's Sports Betting Preview - By Rick Elliott

England Can Beat The Handicap Against Wales

Wales and England are not the best of friends but when they meet on the rugby field the rivalry becomes more intense. They clash today in a potential Six Nations decider at the Principality Stadium in Cardiff. Both teams have won their opening two fixtures so the title is on the line today. England's form is the stronger and they can win beat Wales for the fifth meeting in succession. Scoring records suggest they should be about 10 points' favourites so the bet is ENGLAND -4 at Evens with Paddy Power.

Tottenham are at Burnley today in the Premier League. They have won their last 16 league matches against teams outside the top eight and are on a run of four wins. That recent form has been achieved without Harry Kane and Dele Alli. Burnley are unbeaten in 2019 with four wins and three draws. However, they have won just two points in their last 14 home matches against the top six. The balance of form means TOTTENHAM are the bet at 4/6 with bet365.

Leicester the home team and Crystal Palace are becalmed in mid-table safety, free from relegation worries and unlikely to qualify for Europe. They meet today in the Premier League when Roy Hodgson will become the oldest manager in Premier League history. The visitors are in the quarter-finals of the FA Cup while Leicester have lost five and drawn one of their last six matches. PALACE are a decent outfit on the road so can oblige today at 5/2 with Paddy Power

Kempton stages two novice hurdle races that could be significant pointers for Cheltenham. However, the richest race on the card is the Class 1 handicap chase over three miles at 3.35. Some of the runners appear in ante post betting for similar races at the Festival but today's prize is worth winning. GLEN ROCCO is a progressive horse with course form so is the nap at 7/2 with bet365.

Trackside In Ireland - By Declan O'Donoghue

LAURINA obviously added huge spice to the Punchestown meeting on Wednesday, and the Champion Hurdle hopeful proved a tidy and efficient winner.

Smart stablemate Stormy Ireland - now 6/1 for the Mares Hurdle - made sure that the 30/100 favourite got nothing easy, though she still moved through the gears effortlessly for Ruby Walsh when required.

Ruby is not always the easiest to please but he was very happy this time.

"It felt like a race today whereas Sandown was just a canter around."

"They went a good gallop and she did it really well" Ruby explained.

"She made one mistake when she was perhaps a bit too relaxed."

"She needed that run and it should leave her spot on" he added.

Laurina is now six from six since joining Mullins, and while Apple's Jade has looked visually a lot more impressive - and in much harder races - there's no denying Laurina is a class act who really could be anything.

Mullins might just have pulled a Mares Novice Hurdle rabbit out of the hat with Allez Dance who justified 2/1 favouritism in the opener under Paul Townend.

"She'll get an entry, she has had her problems and I didn't think she'd win quite like that" Mullins said.

Noel Meade and jockey Sean Flanagan are on a roll and completed a fine double when Cap York - 13/2 from "tens" - and The Caddy Rose 100/30 both obliged.

The Navan trainer then made it a hat trick on the day when 3/1 fancy Sellarbridge took the concluding bumper.

Mark O'Hare booted him home and Meade said: "We have been struggling with our bumper horses because we have not been able to get them out on grass."

"He was awful green and you would imagine that he can improve a lot."

Another good week for Declan's Irish Racing Service with Smoking Gun 6/1 (won 4/1); The Caddy Rose 5/1 (w 10/3); Duc Des Genievres 5/2 (w 11/10); Darasso 9/4 (w 2/1); Mrs Lovett 15/8; Ucello Conti 6/5 (w 4/7); Real Steel evens (w 10/11) and Monalee evens.
