A Quick Guide To Creating Your Own Ratings - By Eddie Lloyd

After last week's success with a quick and easy guide to finding winners, I thought that this week, I would create a simple Excel sheet that allows you to create your own ratings. We can apply this strategy to any type of race as long as we have enough ratings. We'll be focussing on the Official Rating and Racing Post's Rating (both know as the OR and the RPR).

The next stage is to look at the market and focus on the top four in the betting. With this system, you'll be looking at the favourite, again but with a little more knowledge in your own ratings, this can pay dividends and find you plenty of winners.

So we need to download this excel sheet -

Your Simple Ratings Spreadsheet

We now need to find the races that we can work on.

Personally, I prefer anything with 12 or fewer runners. This reduces the competition. We'll also focus on the All Weather. This way we can focus on one type of race code and reduce the need to go through every single meeting of a given day.

Handicaps are usually best as we have more OR's and RPR's to work with but sellers and claimers will work just as well.

Once we have found our races for the day, we simply enter the OR and RPR's into the relevant boxes within the spreadsheet, available to download via the link above.

I have selected the 12:20 Southwell, today -

I now have a simple form of rating. We now need to look at the market. The boxes on the right-hand side show us how many points to assign to the markets column. You can see the market below -

We can now see that from some simple rankings we've got an idea of the best horses in the race.

Today's 12:20 Southwell, sees the favourite Irish Octave as the highest rated and he would warrant a good bet. They won't always win, of course, but doing this simple ratings system will allow you to find some of the best top rated horses in a racing day.

If there are enough comments on the blog, I will look at doing a full day's selections, this Thursday.

Another Three Trainers In Very Good Form - By High Roller Racing

Last week I highlighted Willie Mullins as a trainer warming up nicely and Willie did not let me down turning in seven winners including Total Recall in Ladbroke Trophy at Newbury. The winners show no sign of stopping.

Three more trainers are highlighted this week. It may be prudent to follow the entries to help finding winners of these trainers.

Warren Greatrex announced in July that Richard Johnson would be riding his horses as first choice when available. This appointment has been reaping dividends over the last few weeks and shows no sign of letting up. Four of Johnson's last six rides for the stable have won including the useful Le Bague Au Roi who seems destined for better things. The Greatrex horses are running at a better than normal percentage at this time of the year than usual. In the coming week Warren hopes that Aloomomo, Mahlervous and The Butcher Said can all do the business. However I think it prudent to look at all entries made by the yard and work out where they are actual running together with their winning option. Keep Warren in mind.

Jim Goldie is another shrewd trainer who knows the time of day. Jim has had four winners at Newcastle in November and he does seem to have his winning days there in the Winter months. Jim has a number of entries at Newcastle in the coming week and we need to note who he is sending. At the time of writing he has three entries in one race on Wednesday they are Insurplus, Tommy G and Thello... note who Jim selects to represent him. Fintry Flyer and Lotara could both run in a six furlong handicap. Jim has many of his horses well handicapped and is a canny trainer who must be considered with the odd hurdler or two plus his runners on the all weather especially at Newcastle.

James Ewart had four winners and eight placed horses from 23 runners in November. He has his small yard in good form. Aristo Du Plessis has been the stable star in recent seasons winning six of his seven starts between February 2015 and January 2016. The handicapper had the measure of the horse at a 145 rating. The horse had fallen in the ratings and won at Wetherby last month and with a 133 rating he is capable of winning again... look for him. The nine year old Un Guet Apens could prove a good winner for the yard if able to overcome training issues behind him. The horse should be one to follow after winning at Carlisle last month. In all James Ewart should be looked at very carefully.

On a very positive note High Roller Racing, my service, had a 68% strike rate in November winning 59.13 points for members. In the last week out of seven selection there were six winners. A consistent and high strike rate service. High Roller tips a maximum of one horse a day and you pay just £10 if the horse wins and you collect, collect and collect. In December three selections Apples Jade WON 6/4... Kalashnikov WON 10/11... Yanworth second so 66 percent strike rate so far in December.

Five Premier League Group Winners On The Cards - By

Rick Elliott

Manchester United and Chelsea have winnable home matches in the Champions League tonight and the DOUBLE on the English sides to beat CSKA Moscow and Atletico Madrid respectively pays almost 2/1. There are five clubs from the Premier League playing in the competition this season and there is a great chance of them all qualifying for the knockout stages. That would be a first but ahead of the last set of fixtures they are all leading their groups.

There have been times in the history of the European Cup and Champions League when English clubs have dominated. In fact teams from England won the old European Cup seven times in eight years from 1976 to 1984. From 2004-05 to 2011-12 eight clubs from the Premier League qualified for the final and Liverpool, Manchester United and Chelsea were champions of Europe. In each final from 2006 to 2009 the losing finalists were English clubs but none have reached the final in the last five years.

ENGLAND is the favourite at 15/8 in the Winning Nationality market. One league has not provided five of 16 teams in the first knockout round in the history of the Champions League. Barcelona and Real Madrid and more recently Atletico progress from the rounds but Spain does not have the strength in depth of the Premier League qualifiers this season. In fact it's rare for five clubs from one country to play in the Champions League but in winning the Europa League Manchester United joined the four qualifiers from their finishing position in the Premier League.

Chelsea are odds-against to beat Atletico Madrid at Stamford Bridge tonight and that seems a big price when you consider that the Spanish club have won just three of their last 11 matches in the Champions League on the road. Chelsea have already qualified but would be group winners with three points from this match. Manchester United have not conceded in 9 of their last 11 home games in all competitions. Two wins make the English clubs group winners and the halcyon days would be back.

Tuesday's Horses In Focus - By Unity Racing Investments

Well the last couple of weeks of November we gradually gave back some of what we won earlier in the month then we struck with 25/1 sp winner DEFINITELY VINNE that gained us plenty back off the bookmaker as the month was coming to a close so we ended up with 42.60 points for the month which is a huge 33.28% return on investment so another really good month for our members as we watch the investment grow again.

The only slight negative for the month was the strike rate which was very low by our standards but with huge priced winners we more than made up for this.

December is here and we will see bets ramp up into the few weeks before Christmas as many of our contacts try to land that Christmas gamble.

Today's Horses In Focus

Lingfield 1-00 Stakes (Class 6) 16f - Connections of MISTY BLOOM are expecting a much better run today at 16/1 the horse could represent some value last race the horse was a little clueless and wasn't trained to full fitness but they have put a lot more work into her this time round and are hoping for a decent run.

Lingfield 3-00 Handicap Chase (Class 3) 20f - WINGS OF SMOKE may well be 12 yo but he does like the track and has fallen to a very attractive mark. The team think he has a win left in him and he should run a better race today he is certainly fit and well at home. 11/1 across the board is a decent enough bit of value for a horse we price at 6/1.

Southwell 1-50 Handicap Hurdle (Class 3) 24f - I am going to give a squeak here to NAUTICAL NITWIT 20/1 and friendless in the market I happen to think that the horse has a pretty solid chance. I think his racing style is suited to this course. I have watched this horse run on many occasions and it does have the right attitude I think the slight drop in grade will help the cause.

Southwell 2-20 Maiden Hurdle (Class 4) 16f - One at a huge price for a very inform stable is MAD FOR ACTION 40/1 the horse is expected to slowly start to show some signs. He hasn't been over worked for his first few runs but definitely should mature into something it will be interesting to watch and see if the horse can put together a better run today.

Southwell 3-20 NH Flat Race (Class 5) 16f - TWO FOR GOLD 8/1 is a nice moving sort who has the pedigree to win a race of this nature. Connections think they have him ripe for the race and a very big run is expected today.

Wolverhampton 12-40 Handicap (Class 5) 10f - I have been watching the GAY CAVALIER 10/1 for a few races now this is one of those horses that pops up and he is well over due a win. I heard word they were expecting a decent run last time at Chelmsford but the race didn't work out a solid hold up performer he needs things to drop right but given that Chelmsford race was only 4 days ago you have to think connections are sure he is ready to win.

A Horse To Follow...

- Elegant Escape (IRE)
- Age: 5 (Foaled April 1st, 2012)
- Sex: Bay Gelding
- Breeding: Dubai Destination (USA) - Graineuaile (IRE) (Orchestra (IRE))
- Trainer: C L Tizzard
- Owner: Mr J P Romans

All ready rated 137 this horse didn't quite live up to his billing last year but this he has filled out nicely this year. I think if things go well for the horse this year then we are looking at a future CHELTENHAM festival winner. He is a real nice looking horse and will progress again this year and by the end I think that this horse will be rated around the 160 mark. Keep this in your notebook there are no entries yet. The horse is just honest game and very likeable I expect big things this year!

This Weeks Golf Tournaments - By Bet Fairway

BetFairway members were celebrating on Sunday night after some incredible last round investing on the final round of the Hero World Challenge. At the start of the day Charlie Hoffman led by 5 shots with Rickie Fowler well back and many pundits and golf betting "experts" calling it a done deal.

BetFairway had other ideas though and members placed a max win bet on Fowler @28/1 as we opposed the five shot leader Hoffman as he had a history of choking in the lead. The result was sensational as Fowler shot 61 and won easily with Hoffman struggling to get round in par. Yet more evidence of the power of the BetFairway Master Racing system which has been honed over nearly 30 years.

Do not think this is a quiet time in the World of Golf Betting as we have the South African swing then on to the Middle East for some massive Tournaments where the service has traditionally made big profits.

Fowler's win puts us 363.32 points up on the year and a staggering 1736.42 overall since we began. Consistently beating the odds to deliver big profits on golf betting through unique ratings. Make 2018 the year you start making your golf betting pay big time.

This week features the Joburg Open and we have one outright bet at 300/1 there is still time to get on him for the event if you sign up there will also be match bets and round betting. George Coetzee will fancy his chances of landing this and he rates a strong each way bet. A highly talented player in a field that lacks depth he must go close.

Joburg Open Starts Thursday

Each Way - George Coetzee 18/1 Betfred - 1/4 odds 5 places

If you want profits from your betting then the above proves golf could be the key and the time sensitive link below will get you all the BetFairway tips for the next 3 months for just £18.00.
