Today's Sports Betting Preview - By Rick Elliott

Wins For The Manchester Clubs Tonight

I know from personal experience that Lyon are the only team to beat Manchester City this season. The Premier League leaders were the fifth team in a fivefold and the other four teams won. City were added to the bet at 1/5 to boost the profit by 20%. Lyon won the fixture at the Etihad on matchday 1 in the Champions League. It's the reverse fixture in France tonight and City can come out on top. Since that acca buster City have won 12 of 13 fixtures and drew against Liverpool at Anfield after missing a late penalty. Lyon's four matches in the Champions League this season have produced 17 goals and both teams have scored on each occasion. MANCHESTER CITY AND BTTS is the bet at 6/4.

I can also talk from experience when saying Manchester United were rubbish against Crystal Palace at Old Trafford last Saturday. A great day out in Manchester during which the highlight was a visit to a George Best tribute bar in the city centre was spoiled by the 90 minutes of football. The lack of passion on the pitch and in the stands was telling and the match had 0-0 written all over it from the start. Jose Mourinho's next match in charge is basically a home knockout tie against Young Boys in the Champions League. Mourinho knows the league title is not a viable target so qualifying for the last 16 of the Champions League is a must. His team can do more than enough tonight and MANCHESTER UNITED -1 is 4/5 with Paddy Power.

If United get that result Valencia will have to beat Juventus in Italy to stay in the hunt for a top two finish with one match to go. That fixture is at home to the English club and maximum points are required tonight. Juventus beat Valencia 2-0 in Spain, have amassed the highest point's total in Serie A history at this stage and are (virtually) unbeatable at home. JUVENTUS WIN TO NIL can be backed at 5/4.

Tuesdays are like Saturday in Sedgefield because it's a regular race day at the town's small racetrack. Granted there isn't a massive influx of stag and hen parties but some horses visit from other parts of the world. Donald McCain the younger has brought some horses to race today and he could go back to Cheshire with a winner. The nap of the day at Sedgefield is McCain's runner in the handicap hurdle at 12.50. PROMISE OF PEACE is the selection at 7/4 with William Hill.

Gosden, George And Kirby All On Song - By High Roller Racing

The three trainers in our title are all showing useful form and need to be carefully considered when making your selections. All three are established trainers who know the time of day and how to get the best out of their in-form teams.

Gosden has had yet another terrific season the highlight being Enable to win her second 'Arc' and a win at the Breeders Cup... not to leave out Roaring Lions feats and the introduction of another potential superstar in Too Darn Hot. Enable is due back next season for a third crack at the Arc.

Gosden I must say must also take credit, in my opinion, for the vast improvement of jockey Robert Havlin who this season has ridden brilliantly on my rides for Gosden. Gosden team has quite a few entries at lowly tracks like Southwell, Wolverhampton and a track he always does well at Newcastle. Entries need to be checked then see who the trainer chooses to represent him from all of those entries. Horses in particular to look for from this yard in the next week are Holy Heart, St Peters Basilica and Graffiti Master all of who have entries but may or may not take them up. John Gosden cannot be left out of any calculations.

Tom George had a terrific season in 2017/2018 and is heading towards another good season if early trends continue. Summerville Boy and Black Op won two grade one races for the yard last season and both are out to repeat the success again. Valseur De Granval and Fan Fan Seuil are two new recruits who I think will be winning sooner than later. Tribesmans Glory is a bumper horse who has joined the yard and is well thought of. Drill Baby Drill looks another to follow from Tom's yard. Definitely a yard that must come into calculation at all levels.

Phillip Kirby has currently his best tally of winners since 2013. The yard is dual purpose taking jumps and flat in their stride. Phillip has his yard based in Richmond in North Yorkshire so look for any raids this man makes down in the South of England... they don't travel just to be in the line-up they travel to win money whether it's place or win a profit is important to this team. Three horses interest me in the coming week or so from this yard... they are Lady Buttons, Discay and Asum. These three must be followed wherever they appear. Watch out for them.

High Roller has had another decent week with three winners, two non-runners and two placed horses. Our winners were 2/1, 5/4 and 5/4 showing a profitable week. Join us FREE and you can do this following the link below....PAY ONLY IF YOU WIN.

Tuesday's Horses In Focus - By Unity Racing Investments

Really great to report that we have hit profit again with much thanks to our Sunday bet FACTFLOW WON 16/1 sp only the 2nd win for the horse and he looks to be a course specialist with his only Other win coming in the same course and distance.

We have spent most of the month just below breakeven so it's nice to have a big push forward. Fills us with confidence as we head into an action packed December.

Today we have 5 bets on the main service all at Southwell including a 25/1 shot that has been lined up for the race. Join today to get access to these bets.

Today's free info... Brian Hughes has some good looking rides booked at Sedgefield. He rides the track so well he could have a big chance today of landing multiple winners. Everything he is riding has some kind of chance with 4 really good rides for Donald McCain jr a trainer that also does really well here. It could be profitable to cover these 4 in a lucky 15 and to have a few other multiples on them all.

Here is a list of his booked rides...

Over at Lingfield... Lingfield 1-30 Handicap Chase (Class 4) 20f HINT OF GREY has come on from his latest run at Kempton where he took a strong hold most of the race before running out of gas at the business end. He will strip fitter today and holds a big chance around 11/4 looks fair enough.
