Can Southport Win The FA Cup?

Harry Kane was the leading scorer in the World Cup and Hugo Lloris was the goalkeeper for the winning team. Eric Dier scored the crucial penalty for England against Colombia and Dele Alli is one of the best young players in the Premier Cup. The romance of the FA Cup means if Southport beat Tranmere is their replay at home Tottenham will be visiting their small ground in the third round. Southport are in the bottom half of the sixth tier while their potential opponents are still in the Champions League. Southport are 5,000/1 to win the FA Cup but more realistically TOTTENHAM are 8/1 with William Hill.

There is a full programme of Premier League fixtures over the next two nights and this evening's live televised match is Manchester City's fixture at Watford. There is an old saying that you should never back teams playing away from home at odds-on but City are the bankers of the night. The champions have won the last eight meetings with Watford, scoring 27 goals and conceding four. The average winning margin over that run is almost three and City are now at a different level. There is no reason to suggest that average won't be maintained which means MANCHESTER CITY -2 is the bet at 11/5 with Betfair.

The Mosconi Cup is the Ryder Cup of pool and there is a similar dynamic. The United States traditionally have the most talented team but were beaten 11-4 by Europe in Las Vegas last year. It's an annual not biennial event so the best pool players from Europe and the US are competing at Alexandra Palace in London for the next four days. Many of the visiting players are in form so UNITED STATES are tipped to win the 2018 Mosconi Cup at 12/5.

There is an All-Weather meeting at Lingfield today and the best race is the Class 2 handicap over five furlongs at 2.20. Tomily has the best Racing Post Ratings and comes out on top on statistical trends. The horse has a good draw but recent runs do not bode well. VERNE CASTLE has not got a good draw but the horse is suited to the Polytrack at Lingfield so is the each way nap at 16/1 with Paddy Power.

What Should The Stewards Do???? It's A Huge Problem!

- By High Roller Racing

In today's modern era where video replays and technology play a huge part in the vast majority of sports I have a big problem for The Stewards to sort in Horse Racing. This problem I huge because people are betting on the outcome and I am not sure if the Stewards know this or are they turning a blind eye to the problem I will reveal shortly. Millions of pounds or euro's are being gambled and the rules of racing are not being followed in some situations... now you know that there is a problem let me tell you more.

The rules of horse racing state very clearly that every horse participating in a race must be ridden to obtain the best possible finishing position... that is FACT but we could argue some jockeys do that but some jockeys do not for a variety of reasons. An experienced jockey might 'ease down' a horse that has not got any further chance of winning BUT is the jockey guilty of not getting the best possible finishing place?

I am specifically talking about MATCH BETS where punters back one named horse to finish in a higher finishing place than another named horse in that race. The remainder of the race has nothing to do with the match-bet as the punters back horse v horse.

This last week I saw a classic example of a top jockey losing a Match Bet by easing a horse down whilst the other horse in the Match Bet was driven hard by its amateur rider and got past the other horse on the run in.

I want you to go to www.attheraces.com and go on to replays for Sunday 25th November 2018 at Navan in the 2.30pm race The Troystown Handicap Chase. In the race there was a match-bet Rogue Angel v Young Turk so the horse finishing in the highest position was the winner. Both horses were owned by Gigginstown in the Maroon and White but Rogue Angels jockey had a blue cap with Young Turks a blue and yellow check cap. Rogue Angel was ridden by top jockey Paul Townend and Young Turk by Ms Lisa O'Neill. Coming into the home straight Rogue Angel was around ten to twelve lengths in from of Young Turk but realising Rogue Angel couldn't win Paul Townend eased the horse taking it very easily and Young Turk was roused and driven past Rogue Angel to finish 13th and Rogue Angel 17th beaten about 3 lengths. What I am saying is the Stewards needed to look at Pauls riding(he was in my view looking after the horse) because he didn't ride the horse to finish in its best possible position... Lisa O'Neill did and won a Match Bet for punters because of her dogged riding style... I hope you can see my point here folks especially if you bet on Match Bets. Come on Stewards start doing your job properly and make jockeys obtain the best possible finishing position.

High Roller Racing has had a pretty good week again in the week just gone. FIVE WINNERS from SIX SELECTIONS...

Tuesday's Horses In Focus - By Unity Racing Investments

Well we are in a new month and so far a luke warm start for us. We do have some killer bets lined up though and we are confident that we will have a really great month.

I'm going to jump straight into our free bets...

Lingfield 11-50 Handicap (Class 6) 8f - DELICATE KISS has been running faster than the form figures suggest and at 14/1 looks a little overpriced. The drop in trip should really help. The horse is on a good mark and can finally lose the maiden tag today.

Fakenham 12-40 Handicap Hurdle (Class 4) 20f - Caroline Bailey knows what a horse needs to win round here and today she sends THE CAPTAIN at 14/1. This race has been a target for a while and despite form figures being poor a much better run is expected today. Not devoid of promise in 3 maiden runs but wasn't fully fit last time. He has shown enough to win a race like this. The cheek pieces should help keep him straight.
